Why do companies like yours or individuals like you choose López & James?

The strategic decision to establish a business in Latin America is a significant step. With such opportunities, risks and challenges are to be expected. With the right legal, accounting, contracting, and tax advice, your company will overcome these challenges and minimize risks. Our goal is to offer the same reliable and high-quality service that your company would receive from your preferred local advisor in your home country.

Remember that our interest lies in two areas: helping all Latin American companies that want to reach markets within the region, the United States, and Europe, as well as advising all investors from these locations who want to come to Latin America.

López & James combines these values with in-depth knowledge of Latin American law, accounting principles, tax systems, the labor market, business culture, and commercial practices in the region. We are committed to providing services tailored to your specific needs.
